Poetry.

THE MORMON DUNCIAH.

The Deseret News has this awful crusher on Mr. Cullinan and his bill by "Lulu," the Mormon poet:

Mass, do you think that Congress has any right to interfere with Bill?
Then, wherever will he go?
Down! down! I don't think he will?
O, how hard I'll pray and cry!
And I'll hope—I'll pray not it—
I'll just get up and die!

William Cullen—what a name!
Sounds like he was a knave;
And I know he is a knave;
And I know he is a knave;
Simply 'cause he loves you, mother,
And I know he is a knave;
Easier think that men in Utah
Don't have anything to do.

He's not to be had, he is he?
He's not to be had, he is he?
He's not—he's not any more;
Don't you see that he is he?
He's not to be had, he is he?

William Cullen—what a name!

Signs that he was a knave;

And I know he is a knave;

Poetry.

THE FAITH OF LOVE.

"Give thee love as gold gives light,
As from merit or from prayer,
Received in the last vestige of life,
From the last vestige of thy life."

"Give thee prayers, like jewels stinging
On golden threads of hope and fear;
And tenderer thoughts than ever hung
In thy soul's longings."

"As earth grows freely to the sea
Her thousand streams of wealth unfold,
So flows my silent stream to the gold."
"What care I for thy carelessness,
I give less than thy love deserves,
Less than that thy love deserves,
The sky is dark and sound or know."

"Over lingering on a distant shore,
My triumph shuns more sweet than bane,
When these most cruel miles withdraw,
They know that none—can wait."

Selected Story.

"BEVIS"—A TALE OF A DOG.

From the Argosy.

The Lyons' diligence had just gone to start when his dog, Bevis, ran after the crew, and chose my next place the driver; then was still a vacant seat, and the porter called: "Monsieur Dernam."

A tall young man, with a German style of countenance, and a dog, holding in his arms a large black greyhound, which he vainly tried to place on the road.

"Monsieur," said he, addressing me, "from what you tell me, we have been quits since childhood. About three years since he married a rich heiress, and this dog was presented to him by her. Bevis was highly cherished, and his master's wife would not have been pleased if his master was. She left her fond and loving husband and eloped with another man—Sir Arthur had sued for a divorce and obtained it, but the heiress married him. Bevis has not for the last months followed only by his master. His friends knew not where he went. Doubtless the presence of Bevis, evermore recalling the memory of his master, so greatly annoyed him, that he sent him to the south, where he had been told to destroy the faithful creature. But the shot not having been mortal, the dog, I imagine, when he recovered consciousness, was led by instinct to seek the house where he had last slept. Now, Monsieur, he is yours and I heartily thank you for the kindness you have shown him."

About 10 o'clock the steward came to tell us that Bevis had been found, and was sent to his master, and then returned to his accustomed place before the fire.

My parents and the servants had retired to rest, and I had been seated at one end of the long table, holding a book, when the steward came to place the dog.

"Monsieur," said he, addressing me, "will you have the kindness to take my dog?"

Beeling over, I took hold of the animal and placed him on the straw at my feet—I observed that he wore a handsome silver collar, on which the following words were tastefully engraved: "Bevis. I belong to Sir Arthur Barley, given my name by Miss Clara Dernam."

His owner, a tall, thin, elegant man, who now took my place by my side, was evidently either a Swiss or a German, and his name was Dernam. Trifling, as was the master, it excited me, and I was soon in a pleasant conversation. Had I established a sort of intimacy between us, I vented my desire to ask my companion for an explanation.

"It does not surprise me," he answered, "that the collar should puzzle you; and I have great pleasure in telling you the story of its wearer. Bevis belongs to me, but it is not many years since he owned another master who was as tall as his owner. Here, Bevis speaks to the gentleman."

The dog raised his head, opened his bright eyes, and, laying back his long ears, uttered a sound which might well pass for a squirrel.

Mr. Dernam placed the animal's head on his knees, and soon unfastened his collar.

Bevis leaped back his head with a violent jerk, and darted toward the luggage on the hind part of the road. There, growling fiercely, he lay down, while his muscles were stiffened, and his eyes glowed with fury.

"You see, Monsieur, how determined he is to guard his collar! I should not like to be the man who would try to rob him of it. Here, Bevis," said his master, "come, poor fellow! Come and make friends!"

The greyhound still growled, but he turned behind my master and went to his master's feet.

Bevis leaped back his head with a violent jerk, and darted toward the luggage on the hind part of the road. There, growling fiercely, he lay down, while his muscles were stiffened, and his eyes glowed with fury.

"You see, Monsieur, how determined he is to guard his collar! I should not like to be the man who would try to rob him of it. Here, Bevis," said his master, "come, poor fellow! Come and make friends!"

The greyhound still growled, but he turned behind my master and went to his master's feet.

Mr. Dernam placed the animal's head on his knees, and soon unfastened his collar.

SAD ACCIDENT.—Yesterday morning an accident happened to a few miles from Watertown, by the explosion of a gun, shattering the left hand of a young man, by the name of Frederick Heldt. The gun had been loaded for some time the powder having become damp, he drew the charge partly out, when a fresh cap was applied, which ignited the powder causing the barrel to burst near the lock. Dr. C. B. Ames of this place was called, and finding it necessary amputated the hand just above the wrist, at last accounts the patient was doing well.

Watertown May 5th 1870.

CONCLUDED.—We announce with pleasure the conclusion of the tax list with this issue. We shall at no distant day enlarge our journal and other wise improve its value.

EXCITING.—The rate on the proposition to give the Western Railroad $10,000, on next Saturday bids fair to be exciting. It seems very doubtful whether the proposition will carry. We sincerely hope it may.

CHASKA THURSDAY MARCH 23 1870.

HONEST BUSINESS TICKET.

Payment of bonds with lands—YES.

LAND SPECULATOR'S TICKET

Payment of lands with bonds—NO.

SPECIAL ELECTION May 31st, 1870

From the Mankato Express.

If the tax payers of Minnesota were called upon, in two weeks, to vote upon themselves a tax of $6,000,000, in these times, there is scarcely a man but that would justly feel it his duty to suspend all business, if necessary, till he could go to the polls and vote any such hazardous, ruinous measure. And every man would act most wisely in so doing. Why, compare this indebtess to the current expenses of the State government for the present year, and then decide what is the duty of every worthy citizen. The State Treasurer estimates these to the current fiscal year at $4,026,62. Now, the debt that propose to assume, and pay by direct taxation, if this measure is defeated or goes by default, is almost fifteen times as much as the estimated expenses of 1870. Why look at the annual interest on this sum at 7 per cent. It is $420,000, more even than our present State tax. If a man pays five dollars State tax, just to keep up the interest on this amount, he must pay more than five dollars more, besides paying the principal at some future day. Ought not every tax payer, eager to seek this opportunity to dispose of this enormous debt, and relieve the State of a cumbersome load of taxation that it cannot meet in a quarter of a century? It seems to us that the only way to get rid of this matter, to go by default. People of this country who understand the proposition, should be active in the canvass in the brief time that remains, so that Dodge county may speak strongly in favor of paying this indebtess with the lands. As far as we know there is but one sentiment, and that favors the proposition.

Fenians On the War Path.

From the St. Albans World. From all quarters along the Canada frontier comes the intelligence that the Fenians are active, crowding by hundreds to the border towns, and that they are well armed and equipped and supplied with ammunition. It was supposed that four or five thousand would be concentrated at St. Albans last night. An expedition has left Milwaukee by steamer to attack the Canadian town of Brantford, in Canada West, approachable by water from Lake Erie. At least they give that out as their destination, though the vicinity of the Sault is quite as likely to witness their demonstration.

A branch of the organization has been in session in this city recently, although its doings were kept very secret. There are doubtless several hundred of the boys who swear by the green flag ready for action in this State.

President Grant has issued a proclamation, directing the raders to disperse, and the United States military to suppress them wherever they meet in large numbers. The proclamation will probably have little effect, unless backed up by force.

The present Fenian movement looks, to say the least, very serious, and as if serious results might be apprehended from it. Timely.

The First Bond Board Election

From the St. Albans World.

The interest on the railroad bond indebtedness amounts to one hundred and sixty thousand dollars a year. On the 31st we will have an opportunity to pay this bond debt with lands that cost us not a cent, and thus stop the interest. If we refuse to pay them with lands, direct taxation will follow, and according to the assessed value of property in this county, our share of the tax will be about six per cent., or over two hundred thousand dollars for Winona county. Tax payers, are you prepared for it? If not, vote YES on the 31st.

N. Y. DEMOCRATIC.

The Democrats of New York, on Tuesday, elected their candidates for Judges for the Court of Appeals by fifty thousand majority. Under the minority clause of the law, which allows only four of the six judges to be named on the same ticket, the Republicans elect the two of their four candidates who have the most votes. New York city gave 70,000 Democrat to majority.

A Horrible Crime—Retributive Justice.

From the Mankato Express. We are informed that a horrible crime was committed by a negro man upon the person of a white lady named Mrs. Newman, in the neighborhood of Greenville, Kentucky, on last Friday. In the morning the lady told her husband that she and her son were going to spend the day at a neighbor's house, and if they did not return that night he need not feel uneasy. Between her own and her neighbor's farm she was met by the negro, who violated her person, and then murdered her and her son. The next morning the husband started to the neighbor's farm to escort his wife and son home, and found them on the roadside brutally murdered. The news soon spread—men collected—investigated the matter, and soon were satisfied as to who was the perpetrator of the dreadful crime. He was arrested that day, and made a full confession of his guilt. In the hands of an officer he was taken possession of by the excited populace, who at once decided to smear him with tar and burn him at the stake; but while the party appointed to procure the tar was gone, the populace became impatient and hung the negro to a tree until he was dead. His head was then severed from the body and posted in the public square of Greenville on a stake set in the ground, in front of the court house, and no one was allowed to remove it. The leaders of the populace are said to be radicals; so that the radical papers cannot raise a howl this time in relation to one of their party being murdered by Southern Kuklux. As for us, we care not who were the leaders, they did a deed that deserves commendation. Let summary justice be inflicted in all such cases, before they get into the hands of the lawyers.

New View of the Mace-Alten Fight—It was a Swindle!

From the Louisville Journal.

A letter from a gentleman of New Orleans, who was present at the late fight, to a friend in this city, says:

The fight was indeed poor. There was but one blow struck, and no damage more than to ent Allen's cheek a little. The story of a dislocated shoulder was a hoax. I saw every motion made in the ring, and sum it up thus: The fight was thrown off, or Allen is the biggest "eur" that ever entered the prize ring. During the rounds they stopped two or three times to take a drink and rest against the stakes, looking at each other. This may be according to the new rules, for no one present even saw anything like it—There are men who would bet Allen gets no money as Mace. Of course the fight was indeed poor. There was but one blow struck, and no damage more than to ent Allen's cheek a little. The story of a dislocated shoulder was a hoax. I saw every motion made in the ring, and sum it up thus: The fight was thrown off, or Allen is the biggest "eur" that ever entered the prize ring. Visiting Schools—Supt. Du Toit starts out on the first of June visiting the different summer schools of the County—of which there are but a limited number in operation. On this account public examinations of teachers, in the different towns, has been deferred by the Supt. until the month of July, in order to better accommodate the teachers of the County.

The Crops, From the New York World. We publish this morning a series of extracts from the press throughout the Union, showing the condition and prospects of the crops. The prospect of a large yield of grain is very encouraging. The wheat crop throughout the great wheat growing States promises to be larger than in former years, and corn and oats, wherever they have been planted, are already well advanced. The only exception seems to be in California, where the recent drought has worked very serious injury to the grain crop. In the South the press complains that the planters have universally neglected to plant corn, and have planted an excess of cotton. There is, however, no question that the latter crop is in a flourishing condition.

RIVER NEWS.—Commodore Dunkle has thoroughly repaired his barge for summer use, and has entered upon his line of business between this port and St. Paul.

The Howe barge has also undergone repairs and loaded with brick for St. Paul.

Mr. Krouse of Carver, loaded partly with brick and wood at our levee for St. Paul during the week. Taken altogether the week has been a busy one upon our levee.

PROMPT PAYMENT.—Jos. Fritz sustained a serious loss by fire a short time since, and we are happy to state that within a few days thereafter, the matter was promptly settled by the Astoria Ins. Company, and Mr. Fritz received cash in hand $600, the amount mutually agreed upon between himself and the company. F. E. Du Toit is Agent for the old Astoria in this locality.

WHEAT TRADE.—Wheat has been flowing in quite freely during the week, owing probably to an advance in the price of the same. With Rail communication with Duluth, we may expect an advance of at least 10 cents per bushel, and a better market with Minneapolis, than we now enjoy with St. Paul.

POTATO BUGS.—We are informed that the potato bug have made their appearance among the growing vines in this vicinity in great numbers, and threaten destruction to the potato crop. It seems they are determined to stay with us.

CROPS.—We hear the most cheering reports from the interior in regard to the crops. Thus far everything looks splendid, and indicate a good yield.

RAIN.—We have been visited by a number of severe rain showers, during the past two weeks. A little fair weather is anticipated now.

Notice to School Clerks.

The attention of district clerks of "School districts" are called, to the necessity of reporting at once, in conformity with law, the proceedings of the annual school meeting of the district, to the County Superintendent: One third of the clerks have failed in this duty; and, as a consequence, occasions much annoyance to the Supt., and materially interferes with the proper performance of the duties of his office. Blanks can not in every instance, be transmitted to clerks until address and post office is known. Clerks who have not reported, should do so at once.

The Poet's Corner.

ON THE SHORE.

"Going away," I think he said?
With never a word for me;
Going away, and in the local
In case of suns in the West is dead—
All dead on the darling sea—

Why did he leave me then? God knows!

Wasy, I think, of his love;

He left me, and I never looked rose,

And I— for fancy's sake I suppose—
Gave him my violet glove.

The ship sets forth, I know,

The ship is a master's sight,

The ship is on the, the strong winds blow,

And so to the West the ship goes,

And so to the West the ship goes!

I look, and over the waves afar

The white sails flicker so clear,

And the white sails flicker so clear,

But the sight is black with never a star,

It is the sight of his dream.

Only the dim of the sea's far strand,

Only the dark I see.

For he left me here by the broken sand,

With only a word for me!

MY PRIVATE SCHOOL.

"Look at that!" cried my grandmother, striking an attitude worthy of Lady Macbeth when she addressed the fatal spot on her head; this time, however, it was only the scissors, which, in falling, stood upright in the door.

"I see. It's nothing, uncommon, is it?"

"Did you ever know it, happened that a stranger didn't come before the day was out?"

"I never noticed; somebody was always coming for the matter of that."

"I tell you that sign don't never fail!" (my grandmother always liked to emphasize) "it means ill, but that's true as a book."

And another thing, there was a stranger in my tea-to-night, a long one—that shows "he's a man's tea comin'."

Sometime folks set a great deal of store by a man's tea comin' in the same day with the scatters standing up in the floor."

"I hope he will come soon, for the storm will be over before him;" and with the words, the woman was walking round the house, and the first big drops beat against the window-pane.

Three years and ten had not taken the first bloom from the head of my grandmother, but it was fair, green as in her girlhood. Beggars heard of her afar off, and ran to fall on the neck of the woman.

Showed the advice of Lamb without ever having read it. When a poor creature came before her she said not to inquire whether the "several small children," in whose home he imminent distress, had a veritable mother, but rather her bread upon the table.

In fact, she had cast so much bread upon the waters in the course of her long life, and so small a proportion had come back to her, that she had nothing left for her old self, the old farm, and the garden.

When I graduated my grandmother left the old gambrel-roof to see me do it, and carried me home with her a "breath," (as she said) before getting a place to teach.

As to my future, I was neither happy nor unhappy, but rather between. At twenty, life ran on with little friction; there was enough to keep me in mere youth to make living a pleasure.

The evening drew on with ever-increasing gusts of wind, and the old house shook to the great central chimney, which, being made as broad as it was high, could afford to be indifferent when wind and weather came to blows and made a night of it.

"I hope he doesn't mean to sit up for that sunburnt boy as I am," said Falin wet weather."

The words were scarcely spoken when we heard the tread of a horse running at speed down the steep hill above the house, then a splash of mud from the horse and the woman came to blows and made a night of it.
